

ASK·Q

A GAME CHANGER FOR
IN-HOUSE LEGAL TEAMS

In need of legal capacity on demand?

ASK Q STARTS WITH YOUR QUESTIONS

It all starts with your questions

Although Ask Q is the new kid on the block in the legal landscape, we can draw on more than ten years of experience from more than 40 lawyers. All thanks to law firm Quinz, our founders.

Over the years, an increasing number of clients started to ask if Quinz also operates as an extension of their legal team. This question is related to reviews of bulk contract work, spikes in work volume, covering temporary gaps in the legal team, etc.

Out of these specific client questions, Ask Q was born.

A GAME CHANGER FOR
IN-HOUSE LEGAL TEAMS

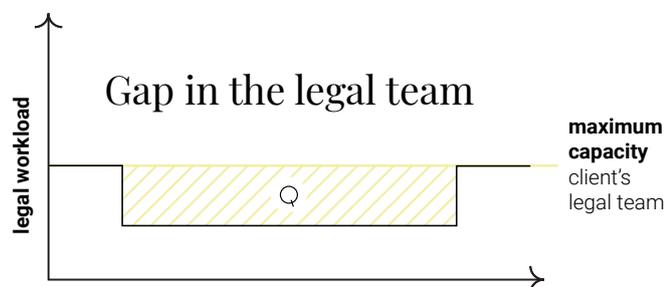

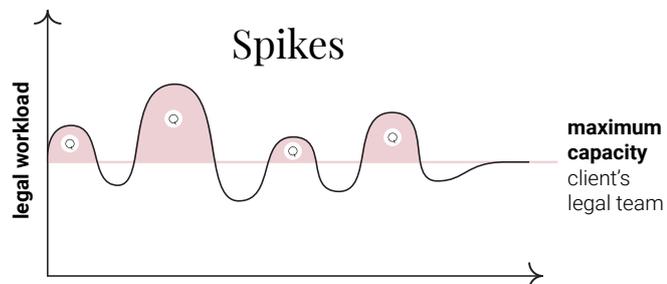

Your questions become solutions

If you need legal capacity, you can ask us anything.

Below are some questions from clients that turned into Ask Q projects.

- “Can you manage our recurring spikes in corporate housekeeping, typically in May and June?”
- “Our legal counsel is on parental leave and we need a senior profile to fill the gap.”
- “Can you help us to get rid of constant bottlenecks in contract work?”
- “Is it possible to outsource all our procurement-related work?”
- “We don’t have in-house legal counsel yet; can you provide on-demand legal support?”

What solution answers your question?

01. Legal Counsel on demand

02. Legal Department on demand

03. Expert Labs

Legal Counsel on demand

We have a broad team of generalist lawyers who act as your legal counsel on demand.

They are the extension of your legal team. Whether required for spikes, bottlenecks or a temporary replacement, they step in whenever you need them. Based on playbooks and templates, they can directly interact with the company and work autonomously.

Legal Department on demand

Some of our clients do not have an in-house legal team. In such cases, we go a step further and act as your legal department on-demand. You will have your own SPOC, the first point of contact for all legal questions. The SPOCs will primarily work autonomously but can also work with the law firm of your choice for specific matters.

We have been in your shoes. We know how companies think and feel, and what challenges in-house legal teams face. Our talented staff have received comprehensive training and mentoring. They go above and beyond standard legal support and also offer legal strategy advice.

Expert Labs dive deeper

We have observed that many of our clients want to outsource the same kind of work. GDPR compliance is one of the expert areas that legal teams are often looking to outsource. Other frequently-cited areas include corporate housekeeping and procurement.

To provide optimal service to our clients, we set up expert labs for this type of work that is frequently outsourced. We refer to them as labs because we offer the domain experts time and space to experiment with the right legal tech solutions. We also hire non-legal professionals to bring specific experience (e.g., IT or project management) to these labs.

Why work with us?

We adapt to your rhythm

Almost all legal staffing solutions oblige you to guarantee a specific volume of work or number of days. This is not the case at Ask Q. Although we focus on long-term collaboration, we are there specifically whenever you need us (and quietly disappear when everything is back under control.)

Your single point of contact

You always have a single point of contact (SPOC). That way, you benefit from the proximity and availability you need during the project. Of course, your SPOC remains there for you long after the project. The time and effort you put in training the SPOC does not go to waste.

We work as a team

Your SPOC is always backed by a team of colleagues and Expert Labs, each with its specific focus or experience. If workload suddenly requires more than 1 FTE, our team members are always happy to jump in.

The Quinz alliance

Law firm Quinz is not only the founder of Ask Q; it is also our ally. Any consultant at Ask Q can use the know-how and templates developed over the last ten years. The Ask Q team can also ask Quinz for advice whenever necessary.
